

ORANGE SHIRT DAY UPCOMING IN SASKATCHEWAN

REGINA – School boards throughout the province will again officially recognize “Orange Shirt Day”, on Tuesday, Sept. 30, together with communities across the country, as requested annually by the Saskatchewan School Boards Association (SSBA).

Sept. 30 is also proclaimed federally in Canada as National Day for Truth and Reconciliation.

“The SSBA and Saskatchewan’s 27 school boards are encouraging everyone to participate in Orange Shirt Day,” said Shawn Davidson, president of the SSBA. “It represents an opportunity for expanding our understanding of history and committing to growing toward reconciliation.”

Orange Shirt Day is part of a larger movement in the country to unite in a spirit of reconciliation and hope for future generations.

Since 2016, the Government of Saskatchewan has proclaimed Orange Shirt Day every year at the SSBA’s request.
